Prince Dead. Royal Friend Missing

Horror has struck at the royal palace, which has affected the whole community. Yesterday, the diamond encrusted sledge, bolted like lightning towards the palace. According to a witness, our beloved Prince Otto is DEAD. Baron Stelgratz (a royal, cherished friend.) was reported MISSING. Besides this tragedy, the well-known Prince Florian is safe and sound.

Yesterday at approximately 9:00pm, the alarm was raised at the palace gates. The guard on duty was surprised to see a commotion down the path into the woods. The diamond encrusted, delicate sledge came zooming towards the palace. The guard opened the gates to avoid a crash. It is said the Princes came back 2 days after they departed for there hunting trip. The horses mouths were full of foam. When they arrived Prince Otto was still lashing the rope (which were attached to the poor horses.) They called the royal physician (a well cultivated man.) Resuscitation was performed. Sadly, our beloved Prince Otto was stated dead at 10:00pm. But apparently, Prince Otto's heart was replaced with CLOCKWORK. Everyone is relieved that Prince Florian is ok.

When interviewed, at the site the royal, educated physician explained "I in my life time have never seen such an episode." Most people have stated Otto's death was peculiar. The police men have strongly expressed that they will not rest until they solve this case. A servant said, "I felt devastated whilst carrying the body of Prince Otto." Princess Mariposa has declined to speak. Ever since the death the guards have been shivering non-stop and declined to say anything.
