

This was my first draft on Appearance. I think I can include many more Year 6 features and I think, this paragraph is a bit repetitive. Can you improve my work in your books by rewriting it, including more scientific vocabulary and more Year 6 grammatical features? Use my ticklist below to help you out.

Appearance

Rabbits have velvety-soft fur which covers their entire body and can range from short to long hair. There are many different types of rabbits so they come in many different colours and have a range of different appearances. Bunnies are no bigger than a toaster and walk on four legs. Also, they have a small, triangle nose that wiggles when they are happy. Many rabbits ears point upwards. Some rabbits, Lops in particular, have droopy ears. Rabbits also have a small, round tail which is the end of the spinal cord: this is the ridge running along a vertebrates back.
